About CEO Space

CEO Space (formerly IBI Global) is an organization dedicated to supporting and connecting business owners, entrepreneurs, authors, inventors, entertainers, investors and other business professionals with the resources, customers and contacts they need to launch or grow their project or business. We use a cooperative model rather than the old, and for many, non productive competitive model.

We are dedicated to helping you convert your small business into a bigger business more quickly and at a fraction of the usual expense and time needed to complete this process. This is accomplished by bringing your resources together at what we call an CEO Space Forum. We hold five of these forums each year in Los Vegas, NV

Besides bringing your resources together in one place at one time, we also compile a week of instruction on the topics most needed by small business people and entrepreneurs. These topics are taught by those who have been where you are and have learned how to succeed. Many are now leading instructors in the corporate world. We believe in leading by example.

We believe that we can help you develop better business plans through the sharing of ideas generated through the forum setting using the cooperative model. We believe that to grow your business it takes a team. We also believe we can help you develop a better team composed of quality business professionals you will meet at the national forum.

There are many resources that are needed in growing a quality business. For most of us, as small business people we are very busy, and really don't know where to ferrite out these resources. Through the unique forum concept developed through CEO Space, we believe we bring together many of these needed resources to one place at one time.

If you consider the time, energy and cost that it would take you to accomplish this by yourself, most would recognize that either you could never do it or it would take a great amount of time, effort and finances while still operating our existing business. Through CEO Space, much of this process can be accomplished during our one week forums. We realize, not everything can be done in one week. But, we believe that you will have the opportunity to lead a forum with a better plan, better team, and an understanding of how you can acquire the needed resources to build your dream business.

There are many that see such value in attending a CEO Space forum that they return to receive further instruction, develop more detailed plans, develop an even better team and acquire needed resources to continue the development of their projects. Many, having received so much from the forum, return to give back to others by volunteering as staff. This is one further example of how CEO Space continues to develop the best possible forum for small businesses and entrepreneurs using the cooperative model.

All of this is afforded you through a one time lifetime membership fee. That's right, CEO Space does not just stop with providing services at the forum. You have the resources of CEO Space for a lifetime.
